CHRISTMAS DAY TO BE CELEBRATED ON MANY LINKS.

TOURNAMENTS AT LAKEWOOD, NASSAU AND RICHMOND COUNTY-NEW COURSES FOR LOCAL PLAYERS GOSSIF

of the nearby links to-day. The unusually mild weather which has prevailed for the last few weeks has induced a number of golf committees to offer Thristmas prizes, and Lakewood, Richmond Counv. Crescent, Nassau and several other well known nks will be alive with players. The prediction of clear and colder weather has encouraged a large number of golfers to run down to Lakewood for holiday, and the hig hotels are thronged with nt at medal play, entries to be made at the tee. A number of handsome prizes have been to tee. A number of handsome prizes have been to tee. A number of handsome prizes have been to tee. At the Country Club the schoolboys of Lakewood High School will hold the second their series of games for the Dwight M. Harria their series of games for the Dwight M. Harria the Island. A Christmas tournament is antend for members and guests, and though only meed for members and guests, and though only he holes of the course are open the contest will be holes of the course are open the contest will be been provided at the Crescent Athletic Club, day Ridge, while at the Nassau Country Club, day Ridge, while at the Nassau Country Club, den Cowe there is to be a members' handleap Classes A. aks are being established so rapidly that ard to keep pace with them all. The latest it is that an eighteen hole course is on the property known as the Martin not far from the old Tilden The land comprises about acres, but only a portion of it will be a links. A fine new clubbouse will be in Broadway by a depth of 2,000 feet, and a in Broadway by a depth of 2,000 feet, and a tage of over 1,000 feet in Odell-ave. It is a t distance from St. Andrews Station, on the son River Railread, while the Palisade-ave, ev, now in process of construction, will run in a few minutes' walk of the clubhouse. In the links will be one of the most accessible my situated near this city, and the club will tiess prove popular for that reason alone. The is to model it as far as possible on the Ardsley no, with provision for indoor sports and sleep-spariments for members, and, though golf will be chief attraction at present, sports of all s will be encouraged.

rd comes from the other side that English golfers have already decided on the links to which the various championships are to be awarded. The Golf Club, but the date has not yet been fixed, though it will probably be set for June. It was last held there in 1885, when J. H. Taylor won for the second year in succession. At that time, it may be remembered, Abe Hurd started the final round saveral strokes to the good, but in a storm of wind and hall Taylor made a grand 7, and fairly ousted the Scotchman. The amateur championship has been given to Sandwich, May 7 being the opening day. This is somewhat earlier than players here begin the season, but the more open weather abroad makes the date a good one. The last time this course was used was also in 1895, when Balfour-Melville beat John Ball, jr., the present champion, after a tie. H. M. Harriman, the American champion, is expected among the competitors. The women's championship has been awarded to Westward Hol the week beginning May 14.

The women's record of the Chevy Chase Golf Washington, has just been lowered by Miss Kitzmiller, who broke the previous record of 117 by seven strokes. Miss Kitzmiller is a member of seven strokes. Miss Kitzmiller is a member of the Edgewood Golf Club, of Pittsburg, where she is regarded as a player of unusual promise. In the same competition Miss Parrish, of the Shinne-cock Hils Golf Club, who has been a frequent competitor in fournaments in this section, made the course in 118 strokes, and won second place. The tournament is only the beginning of a series of similar ones in the winter, and the members are looking forward to an unusually brilliant season.

The suggestion made in one of the English golfing periodicals that all money stakes in golf matches should be turned over to the South African war relief fund seems to have met with African war relief fund seems to have met with immediate favor, and it is said that considerable help is being given in this novel way. As there are many golfers among the troops in South Africa it will doubtless please and interest them to learn that their favorite game is being used as a means to augment the relief fund. Apropos of these golfing soldiers at the front, "Harper's Weekly" is responsible for this: "The new captain of the Natal Volunteers followed with eager eyes the flight of the shell which his brave men had just fired. He saw that it would inevitably descend upon a little group of the enemy, and the old golfing instinct overcame him. 'Fore' he yelled frantically. One imagines by this time there will be little of the golfing instinct left, and even with a white flag holsted our golfing soldiers—the exchampion among them—will scarcely cry 'Fore' to the enemy, after what has happened."

present reports are true. It is said that the price of gutta percha suitable for the manufacture of golf balls is to be steadily advanced before spring, and that the cost of these necessary adjuncts of the game will be largely increased. The cause of all this is doubtless the increased demand for gutta percha used in binding submarine cables. Buyers for American houses abroad report that there are already signs of an early advance and that the discounts on large orders are being taken off. Certainly at $50 a dizen golf balls are expensive though as it is, and any further increase will be generally felt throughout the country. The consumption of these gutta percha spheres has become enormous in the last few years, and dealers abroad are quoted as saying that while the demand of the home market reaches generous proportions. American golfers are by far the best customers, the experts for a single week often reaching thousands of dozens. It is estimated that the number in use in a single amateur championaship exceeds seventy dozen, so that it will be readily seen what an enormous quantity is required to supply the demands of an entire season. the game will be largely increased. The cause of
